Re: New Website

I am really pleased to confirm that our new website is now live! Our new host is Itchyrobot and the new web address is: <https://www.stanhopebarrington.org.uk/>

We have worked hard with Itchyrobot over the last few months to improve the format of the home page and the structure. The website is by no means as good as we would like it to be at the moment and there are still improvements to be made, however, we have had to get as much done as possible to allow us to go live before the end of March 2024 when Durham County Council have terminated the contract.

We are aware that there are still gaps and that some information still needs updating so please bear with us. I am however, confident that we will have a proactive and professional service from Itchyrobot which will allow us to continually review and improve our website provision.

We have a redirect on our old website but this old website will disappear shortly and all of our letters, communication and information updates will be on our new website from today.

Yours sincerely

Mrs D Cross
